1. A rectangle has a length of 12 cm and a width of 6 cm. It is cut in quarters like shown below.

   The four parts are put together to make the following shape.

   What is the perimeter of the new shape?

2. A rectangle has a length of 12 cm and a width of 6 cm. It is cut in quarters like shown below.

   The four parts are put together to make the following shape.

   What other perimeters could be made?
3. There are 81 red, blue and yellow counters in total.

   There are 9 more red counters than yellow ones.

   There are the same amount of yellow and blue counters.

   How many of each colour are there?

4. There are 81 red, blue and yellow counters in total.

   There are 9 more red counters than yellow ones.

   There are the same amount of red and blue counters.

   How many of each colour are there?